BAUER IN TAKING HELM IN GERMANY CONDEMNS TREATY

His 'Accursed Duty,' He Says, To Save What Can Be Saved

NO CHOICE GIVEN

Tells Assembly Decision Must Be Taken Or War Will Start Afresh

STATES TWO AIMS

Reparation Outside And Fostering Of Liberty Won In Collapse

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 22.—Herr Bauer, addressing a crowded meeting of the National Assembly, emphasised the bitterness of deciding joining the new Government, whose most urgent duty was to conclude a Peace of injustice: but in view of the Fatherland's distress, it was impossible to refuse unless they wished to leave Germany the prey of chaos. It was his accursed duty to save what could be saved.

He pleaded with the Assembly not to think the advocates of the rejection of the Treaty were chauvinists or those reluctantly accepting it cowards and weaklings. The decision must be taken, otherwise war would begin afresh on Monday. Every instrument of murder was prepared against the defenseless and unarmed nation, which knows only two commandments: externally reparation and internally the development of the liberty won in its collapse.

Makes Final Protest

"At this hour of life and death, under the menace of invasion, I, for the last time, raise in free Germany a protest against this Treaty of violence and destruction, this mockery of the right of self-determination, this enslavement of the German people, this new menace of the peace of the world."

Referring to the view that acceptance of the Allied terms would endanger the German nation more than their rejection, Herr Bauer emphasised that their rejection would merely postpone the Treaty for a brief space of time for the power of resistance of Germany was broken.

Government's Position

He said the Government had decided to sign the Treaty while declining responsibility for the consequences if Germany is unable to fulfill the conditions and declaring that signature of the Treaty does not mean acceptance of Articles 227 to 231 relative to War Responsibilities and the surrender of Germans for trial.

Erzberger Vice Premier

Berlin, June 22.—Herr Eraberger is the Vice-Premier in the new Cabinet.

The newspapper Freiheit says that General von Lettow-Vorbeck is organising an army in East Prussia to fight the Noske Government and the Entente.

Spartacist Riots Develop

Serious disturbances occurred at Mannheim yesterday, shops and private houses being plundered. Some troops resisted an attempt made by the rioters to enter the barracks, using grenades. Twenty persons were seriously injured and 200 arrested. Places of amusement and cafes were closed. Firing continued today in various parts of the town.

Spartacist riots have broken out in Cassel and martial law has been proclaimed. The Spartacists made an unsuccessful attempt to storm the prison and police station but seized a food warehouse. Firing occurred until midnight and a number of persons were killed and injured.

Report Is Denied

Copenhagen, June 22.—A semi-official message from Berlin denies the report issued by the Freiheit with regard to General von Lettow-Vorbeck and says that General von Lettow-Vorbeck is still in Berlin.

Assembly Hears Reply

Berlin, June 22.—The newspaper Germania states that Herr Mueller today is acquainting the National Assembly with the text of the German reply, which will be despatched immediately the majority of the Assembly approves it.

Germania declares that the note does not accept Article 231, which makes Germany responsible for the war, and also the sections regarding penalties. The note alleges that President Wilson's principles have not been applied and says that Germany cannot assent to the Treaty owing to the presence of unfulfillable and unbearable conditions, adding "Germany therefore will sign only under reserve and will not undertake full responsibility for the execution of the terms."

It's "All Aboard" 'The Water Wagon In The U.S. Today

Long Dry Spell Is Begun In Accordance With Order Wilson Issued

The agonised creaking sound, as of the protest of rusty springs, which may be heard all day today drifting in from the direction of Pootung is our old acquaintance the U.S. of A. clambering aboard the waterwagon.

The war did a lot of things to geography but nothing so revolutionary to a lot of people in Yankeeland as the simple tearing of last month's leaf off the calendar. From now on in the estimation of a considerable proportion of the populace the U.S. will be bounded on the South by Juarez, on the North by Moutreal and on the East and West by Liverpool and Yokohama.

One phase of the great drought which will appeal to tipplers in less arid localities in the nature of a huge joke on their American brethren is the fact that these latter had little time to liquidate the signing of the peace. The word of the signing would reach New York about 8 p.m. on Saturday, Sunday in many cities is a dry day—leaving approximately one day only for the celebration. Thus the day must have been fraught with mixed feelings for the cohorts of J. Barleycorn, Esq., rejoicing for the peace, mourning for the passing of the late Mr. Here S. How. It is probable that the rites in observance of these two occurrences were combined, for, according to States papers, the "farewell" celebration has been in process of arrangement for some time. For months the tables of all the New York and Chicago cafes have been booked for the night of June 30 in connection with the obsequies and, judging by intimations received, when the sprinkler rolls around on this first day of July, 1919, a large majority of those who were out last night will be waiting at the curb and, gently rearranging the folds of the ice-lined towel, will raise three feeble cheers.

The U.S. goes dry today by Presidential order for the period of demobilization and on January 1 next the country becomes permanently dry by amendment to the Constitution the provision having already been ratified by the requisite number of States.

As the Governor of North Carolina will doubtless mention to the Governor of South ditto on those subsequent historic occasions incident to their meetings, "It's a long way between drinks."

Copenhagen Hears Republic Has Been Organised And That President Is Named

Officer Who Sank Warships At Scapa Flow Carried Out Orders Former Kaiser Gave

Rear Admiral Accepting Responsibility Says He Had Been Directed Early In War Never To Surrender—Anglo-French Views Given

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 23.—The German fleet at Scapa Flow was sunk by order of Rear-Admiral von Reuter, a copy of whose instructions has been found. He accepts the responsibility. He says that he read in a German newspapepr that the armistice ended on the 21st and sank the ships in accordance with the orders given by the ex-Kaiser early in the war never to surrender.

It appears that Rear-Admiral von Reuter journeyed to Berlin some weeks ago on the plea of illness but soon returned.

According to an eye-witness, each German ship hoisted a German ensign to the main-mast while most of them showed a red flag at the foremast.

The spectacle of the array of rocking war-ships, with one occasionally disappearing in a cloud of steam and spray, was very remarkable.

Officers Are Arrogant

It was a big task to collect the 5,000 Germans swimming or in boats, many of which showed white flags. The German officers were very arrogant when they boarded the British ships. One ordered his boat full of men to cheer while another pointing said: "See how the German navy goes down with its flags flying." This last statement was untrue as the British boarded most of the ships and hauled down the flags.

There were six Germans killed and ten wounded by gun firing.

The British fleet was at sea at the time but was promptly recalled.

It is announced that the anchorages at Scapa Flow is not seriously blocked, most of the sunken ships are lying in twenty fathoms of water and it is not proposed to salvage them.

Question Of Responsibility

It is authoritatively stated that the conditions for the internment of the German fleet were laid down by the Inter Allied Council, hence the responsibility for placing the German crews on board rests equally with all Allies.

Some papers are very angry and talk of von Reuter being liable to the penalty of death or imprisonment and demand that Germany shall pay the value of the fleet and clear Scapa harbor at her own cost, but opinion in general, while it condemns this stupid but cunning breach of the armistice, considers the loss of the ships as a good riddance.

Signal Was Prearranged

London, June 23.—A telegram from Thurso states that the sinking of the German fleet was carried out on a prearranged signal by new skeleton crews who recently arrived on board a German troopship and following whose arrival a new and less docile spirit seems to have manifested itself.

When fire was opened upon the boats heading for the shore after the sinking of the ships the Germans used handkerchiefs as white flags. 1,400 Germab seamen landed on the island of Nigg, where 200 men of the Seaforths are guarding them.

Opinion In Germany

Copenhagen, June 23.—A message from Berlin states that the sinking of the German fleet is condemned by the Left press but praised by the Right.

For example: the Lokal Anzeiger speaks of brave men preferring death

New U.S. Stamps Go On Sale Today

First Lot Of Shanghai Surcharge Issue Arrives; Collectors Already After 'em

The new surcharge stamps, which distinguish the Shanghai U.S. Postal Agency from all other branches of the American postal service, go on sale this morning.

First class postage rates return today to ante-war schedule and from now on a two-cent stamp will carry the ordinary letter. The rate, as it was before the war, is two cents an ounce for letters.

A large consignment of the new stamps was received by Postmaster Everett by the Empress of Russia. They are similar to the ordinary U.S. postage stamp basically, but have the words "Shanghai China" and the surcharge value overprinted on the face. The surcharge amount is in Mex., being double the gold rate, and henceforth all customers presenting Mexican currency will be given the new stamps. Ordinary stamps will be sold for U.S. currency only and it may be well to remind buyers that they will save time for both themselves and the postal employes if they specify when they call for stamps which sort they desire.

There has already been a strong demand for the new issue from stamp collectors all over the United States and even before the first consignment arrived Postmaster Everett had received orders from America amounting to over G. $2,000.

The new stamps are in denominations of 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 24, 32, 40 and 60 cents and $1.00 and $2.00, surcharge value Mex. The price of a complete set is Mex. $5.64.

Peace News Finds Shanghai With Sentiments Divided

Foreigners Rej[illegible], Chinese Threaten Another Strike If There Is No Reservation Regarding Shantung

Sentiment is split in Shanghai regarding the celebration of the peace.

Among the foreign Allied communities a spirit of quiet rejoicing attended the reception of the news of Germany's signing, given visible and audible expression by the display of considerable Allied bunting yesterday and the booming of a salute of 101 guns from warships on the river at noon. In contrast is the Chinese attitude toward the signing.

The Chinese flag was conspicuous by its absence in the display of yesterday while at a mass meeting of Chinese students, merchants and laborers held on Sunday at the Nanyang Middle School grounds the decision was adopted that as soon as it is officially confirmed that the Chinese delegates to the conference have signed the pact, unless it carries a reservation in regard to the Shantung issue, a three-days' period of mourning will be called and badges of sorrow be worn by local Chinese.

Secession Is Threatened

The mass meeting was scheduled to be called at the West Gate Public Recreation ground at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, but was shifted to the Nanyang Middle School following one of the most dramatic scenes ever enacted in Southern Shanghai. The meeting, which was attended by over 10,000 Chinese, decided to call another mass meeting today at 1 o'clock. If again officially suppressed, it is declared, another strike will be called. It further threatened to severe relations with Peking and Japan, unless the Central Government yields to the demand for the dissolution of the Peking Parliament and the cancellation of the secret treaties.

Official opposition to the holding of the meeting was intimated by THE CHINA PRESS and the Chinese papers Sunday morning. In spite of this news and the deplorable weather, more than 10,000 persons were waiting outside the gate of the Recreation Grounds when the clock struck three. They found the gate securely locked and a detachment of police stationed outside of it. Proclamations by the Nantao Chief of Police and the City Magistrate forbidding the mass meeting were posted on the walls.

Six represetatives were then elected by the people to approach the Chief and the Mayor as well as the Defense Commissioner with the view to persuading them to allow the gathering. But when they returned they reported that all had refused to consent. A few speeches were then made and the crowd decided to call on the Defense Commissioner.

Scene Is Dramatic

While the throng was on its way to the Arsenal, two battalions of soldiers, the third and fourth battalions of the 39th Brigade, advanced to meet it. They met at the second section of Lunghua Road. The crowd attempted to advance. The troops blocked the way. The soldiers took up their position with fixed bayonets. The civilians, including many girl students, knelt down and declared their willingness to be shot. Faced with this situation the officer in command ordered his men to shoulder arms and sent word of the dilemma to the Defense Commissioner.

Then three representatives, Miss Su Wei-tseng of the Chen Chow Girls' School; Mr. Lin Ping, a Japanese returned student, and Chung King-san, representing the labor element pathetically appealed to the troops to be allowed to see General Lu Yung-hsiang. After a great deal of hesitation the soldiers consented to report the grievances to the General.

Twenty-seven representatives were then received by General Lu. They were told that as the order forbidding the meeting at the Public Recreation Grounds had already been issued it could not be rescinded. But General Lu said that the meeting might be held, meeting somewhere else. General Lu also intimated that he would not interfere with future meetings.

It was then decided to hold the meeting at the Nanyang Middle School and the resolutions were passed. The meeting was presided over by Mr. L. Ta-yen, secretary of the Citizen's Union.

Statement Is Issued

Not wishing to be associated with the decisions of the mass meeting Sunday, the Western Returned Students' Union issued the following statement yesterday:

"Yesterday in the great mass meeting held in the native city, some radical element proposed that they should excommunicate the present Peking Government. The Western Returned Students' Union have not approved such proposal and have never given it any consideration. The union wishes, therefore, to state its position clearly. In order to avoid any misunderstanding."

The salute which roared along the waterfront yesterday noon, giving the Bund the appearance of a smoke barrage zone, was fired by Admiral Rodgers' flagship, the General Alava, the British gunboat Kinsha and the Japanese gunboat Fushimi, the guns banging alternately and the entire ceremony taking about fifteen minutes.

Practically every foreign hong in the business district was beflagged, as were many of the foreign residences, the tramcars carried flags and the craft in harbor dressed ship.

Prayers of thanksgiving were offered in the churches Sunday in connection of the word of peace and at 12.30 p.m. there was a gathering at the Shanghai Club which was addressed briefly by Mr. J. W. Jamieson, Acting British Consul-General, and Col. John Ward.

The St. George's Society sent a cablegram to the King in honor of the occasion.

SIGNING OF TREATY AT VERSAILLES IS SIMPLE CEREMONY

Credentials Are Verified, Then Event Takes Place In Afternoon

TEXT IS CERTIFIED

Clemenceau Vouches For Document Which Is Not Read

FOCH IS PRESENT

Request Made By Germans That Review Be Granted Within Two Years

(French Wireless To Reuter)

Paris, June 28.—(Via Lyons and Koukaza).—On Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the Galerie des Glaces at Versailles, the Treaty of Peace between the Allied and Associated Powers and Germany was signed.

The German plenipotentiaries, the Ministers Hermann Muller and Bell arrived on Friday night. This morning the verification of credentials took place because there could be no question of reading the Treaty as it contains more than four hundred pages.

Certified By Clemenceau

In the name of the Conference M. Clemenceau addressed to the German delegates a letter certifying that the Treaty submitted for their signature was the same as the one submitted to them by M. Dutasta.

Marshal Foch during the ceremony sat among the French delegation.

Among those invited to be present at the ceremony notably figured the members of the committees of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, the four Premiers who were in office during the war before M. Clemenceau, namely, Messrs. Briand, Ribot, Painleve and Viviani—and the French High Commissioner in Alsace-Lorraine.

Germany Wants Review Held Within Two Years

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 22.—A note signed by M. Clemenceau today, replying to the German note of the 20th, states that the copies of the Treaty handed to the Germans on the 19th are the authentic corrected text. Moreover it refutes the allegations of inconsistencies and says that the obligations imposed on Germany are in the nature of reparation and are designed to give effect to the principle of equitable treatment.

A German note requests that the Treaty may within two years of the date of signature be submitted to the High Council of the League of Nations for examination, at which the German Delegation shall enjoy absolute equality with the Allied delegates; the Council to decide regarding the conditions of the Treaty which impair the self-determination of the German people and also with regard to the economic clauses, which Germany claims at present impede her free development.

M. Clemenceau, President Wilson and Mr. Lloyd George met at 6:30 this evening at Mr. Lloyd George's residence. The German reply was received at 7 p.m. and the meeting lasted to 8 o'clock, then adjourned for an hour and re-assembled at 9 p.m.

Text Of Answer

The answer issued at 9:30 p.m. reads as follows:

"The Allied and Associated Powers have considered the Note of the German Delegation of even date and feel it their duty to reply at once in view of the shortness of the time remaining.

"Of the time within which the German Government must make its final decision with regard to the signature of the Treaty less than twenty-four hours remain.

"The Allied and Associated Governments have given the fullest consideration to all the representations hitherto made by the German Government with regard to the Treaty, have replied with complete frankness and have made such concessions as they thought right to make and the present note from the German Delegation presents no arguments or considerations not already examined.

"The Allied and Associated Powers therefore feel constrained to say that the time for discussion has passed. They can accept or acknowledge no qualification or reservation and must require of the German representatives an unequivocal decision with regard to their purpose to sign and accept as a whole or not to sign and accept the Treaty as finally formulated.

"After signature the Allied and Associated Powers must hold Germany responsible for the execution of every stipulation of the Treaty."

that in all respects the Treaty will enter into force for each Power on the date of the deposit of its ratification.

The date of ratification, that is of the coming into force of the Peace Treaty, cannot be stated yet."

Hongkong, June 30.—At 8 o'clock this morning the British, American and Japanese warships and the shore batteries fired salutes of one hundred and one guns. The naval vessels are dressed and the city is a blaze of Allied national flags.

An informal reception was held at the Government House at noon, those present including the heads of the Civil departments, naval and military officers, the members of the Consular body and leading members of the Indian and Chinese communities. The Governor made a speech and in conclusion asked the assemblege to drink to the health and long life to their Majesties and the rulers and heads of the Allied and Associated nations. The company loyally responded, after which the ceremony terminated.

ALL FRANCE CELEBRATES WHEN TREATY IS SIGNED

Preparations Being Made For Fetes Of Victory To Be Held On July 14

(French Wireless To Reuter)

Paris, June 29.—(Via Lyons and Koukaza).—The news of the signature of the Treaty of Peace was welcomed with enthusiasm by the inhabitants of Paris and was proclaimed by the firing of cannon and the ringing of the bells of Montmartre. An enormous torchlight procession was organized. The native band of the Tralleurs, the buglers of the Lorraine Sportive and the fire brigade perambulated the city, followed by an immense crowd while airplanes flew overhead in great numbers. It was only about 5 p.m. that it became generally known that the Germans had finally signed the Treaty of Peace. Processions were then formed, headed by tricolors and marched about the city.

This evening military parades and torch processions are circulating the principal streets of Paris.

On Friday afternoon the Chamber of Deputies voted a credit of 400,000 francs for the celebration of Fetes of Victory to be held on July 14.

The program will comprise a march-past of troops in field kit headed by the marshals of France, Foch, Joffre and Petain. The parade will traverse the following streets: the Avenue de la Grande Armee, Champs Elysee, Place de la Concorde, Grands Boulevards, Avenue de l'Opera, Rue de Rivoli and Place de la Concorde.

On Friday the Chamber elected the Commission charged to study the Treaty of Peace. All the candidates designated by the political groups were elected, including nine socialists and two socialist extremists.

Another election will take place on Monday, when a Commission having sixty members will be definitely constituted.

BRITISH COAL BOARD ISSUES NEW REPORT

Views On Proposals Advanced Given By Mine Owners And Workers

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 21.—Further reports of the Coal Commission have been published.

The main report, which is signed by the Chairman of the Commission, Justice Sankey, alone recommends immediate legislation for the acquisition of royalties for the State, owners receiving just compensation if there is immediate application of a scheme for local administration of mines through local, district and national mining councils and legislation for acquiring the mines themselves for the State after the scheme has been worked for three years, with just compensation for owners.

It also recommends continuance of Coal Control for three years. The object of the local councils, on which workers are to sit, is to utilise the knowledge of the workers in advising a manager of a mine and to give them an effective voice with regard to their own safety and health. The object of the district councils, on which miners and consumers and the technical and commercial side of the industry are to be equally represented, is to prevent bureaucratic running of the industry while the national council will superintendent the operations of the district councils and appoint a standing committee to assist the Minister of Mines.

Miners Accept Report

The report of the miners' representatives generally agrees with the report signed by Justice Sankey but objects to the provisions requiring men to sign a contract not to combine to cease work until the question in dispute has been before the appropriate councils, according to whether the matter is local district or national, as they considered this innovation is not best calculated to attain this object. This report denies the diminished output of coal is the fault of the men and demands an immediate inquiry, as also does the report signed by the owners' representatives.

Three of the miners representatives, Mr. John Hodge, Mr. Smillie and Mr. Smith object to compensation, apart from compassionate allowances, where small royalties owners are deprived of their livelihood.

Report Of Owners

The owners' report argues that any form of nationalisation would be detrimental to the development of the industry and the economic life of the country and no action so vitally affecting the whole nation should be taken without referring the question to the community.

It recommends the establishment of a Mines Department assisted by a system of councils similar to those recommended by Justice Sankey. With a view to removing difficulties arising from royalties, it proposes that the State shall acquire the ownership of the coal subject to the continuance of the existing leases for at least sixty years.

Private Tseu Comes All Way From Front To Join His Boss Here

Private Joseph Tseu, U.S.A.

For six years prior to America's entry into the world war Joseph Tseu was in the employ of Mr. Walter R. Coombs, sugar man of Honolulu. Shortly after the United States became a belligerent, so did Tseu. Enrolling in the Gas and Flame Corps, he soon reached France, and during his term of service he received a bullet wound in the left jaw, a shrapnel cut in the forehead, and another in the left leg. Then came the armistice. Tseu figured that Mr. Coombs needed him again, he asked for his discharge and took the first boat for Honolulu.

But Mr. Coombs was in the Philippines investigating the sugar situation for Honolulu capitalists and Tseu took what money he had saved and bought a ticket for Manila. The day the Ecuador left Honolulu, Mrs. Coombs received a wire stating that her husband was at Shanghai. Tseu cabled "Coming Ecuador, Tseu."

And Joseph Tseu, in his olive drab uniform, with the design of his corps on the shoulder and a gold wound stripe on his right sleeve, with his overseas cap tilted at a saucy angle, strolled into the Astor House soon after the Ecuador came into port. His first words were, "Mr. Coombs, I made at least three Germans say Kamerad."

The stocky Chinese lad was seven and a half months in France, obtaining his wounds during the October push in the Argonne.

Wounded At Chaumont

It was at Chaumont where Tseu and a German bullet met one day. The missile went through his left jaw just below the ear and took away a number of teeth and part of the jaw. The piece of shrapnel, while it tore into his forehead between the eyes, was so cleverly attended to by the army doctors that the scar is scarcely noticeable.

Tseu told Mr. Coombs, "Our American army sure did make those Germans sit up and take notice." The lad is very proud of the fact that he was born in Hawaii and is a Chinese-American and also glories in the rapid-fire army lingo which he accumulated during his two years with the colors.

He came to Shanghai "because Mr. Coombs is here" and will stay until Mr. Coombs goes, he said.

Mr. Coombs will be here for another month before returning to Honolulu to make his report on the sugar situation in the Philippines. And Tseu is going back with him.

"Have you got money enough to get back," the reporter asked Tseu.

"I'll say I haven't," he retorted, "I spent the last jitney I had for a wireless message to Mr. Coombs, I wanted him to be sure that I was on that Ecuador."

PRESIDENT HSU HEARS DEMANDS OF SHANTUNG

Delegates Given No Definite Assurances About Signing Of Peace Treaty

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 28.—The Shantung delegation and delegates representing the students were received this morning by President Hsu Shih-chang and reported their requests that the Government would not authorise the signature of the Treaty of Peace without a reservation that the Shantung-Kaomi-Hsuchow and the Tsinan-Shunfeh railways agreements be abrogated and that the Internal Peace Conference should be opened as soon as possible.

President Hsu Shih-chang replied that the Government is in favor of signing the Treaty with a reservation but the actual position at present existing in Paris is not known. He stated that negotiations are proceeding between the Waichiaopu and the Japanese Legation with regard to the railway agreements and it was by no means impossible that these agreements would be abrogated. Further, some of the Northern delegates had already left for Shanghai and the Conference might be re-opened at any moment.

The three delegates from Shantung appeared to be satisfied with the President's reply, but the other two, bowing their heads to the ground, appealed to the President to save Shantung. In face of this display of emotion the President retired.

The students' delegates are still waiting for a more definite assurance from the President regarding Shantung and refuse to leave the gate of the Palace until their demand is complied with.

Liang Hung-chi, on behalf of the Anfu Club, this morning called on Tien Wen-lieh to ascertain his attitude towards the acceptance of the post of Premier. Tien Wen-lieh, however, was unable to express an opinion until news had been received from Paris with reference to the signing of the Peace Treaty.

London, June 21.—Mr. G. H. Roberts, Labor M. P. for Norwich, presiding at a Labor Conference in London, said that it had been decided in the interest of the consumer to retain control of food during the coming winter.

Seven Put On Trial For Official's Murder

A coppersmith, three farmers, two chauffeurs and a tailor were put on trial before Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Kwan in the Mixed Court yesterday on the charge of murdering Kwe Ban-kyeu, adviser to the Tuchun of Chekiang who was assaulted by a mob and beaten to death in the country off Perry Road on June 19.

Mr. G. H. Wright appeared to prosecute and Mr. H. D. Rodger and Mr. J. B. Davies appeared for three of the accused. Sub-Inspector Aires gave testimony regarding the finding of the victim, who was not yet dead, and Detective Sergeant Page stated that the seven arrests were made as a result of investigations by the police. Only one witness implicated the accused and it had been found that all the ablebodied men had absented themselves from the villages near the scene of the attack. The principal witness heard was an employe of a tea shop at the Woo Shun Daung temple who stated that he had seen two of the accused in the crowd which was pursuing the victim, accusing him of poisoning wells. He had not seen anyone strike the fugitive. The case was adjourned until today.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARDEE, M. D.,

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. PARKER, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."

NEW CHINESE CONSULS WILL GO TO SIBERIA

Offices At Omsk And Heiho Are Among Those That Will Be Opened

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, June 25.—The Ministry for Foreign Affairs has decided to establish four new Chinese consular offices in Siberian territory, including a Consulate-General at both Omsk and Heiho, a Consulate at Chita and a Vice-Consulate at Poli. These offices, with the Consulate-General at Vladivostok, will give China five distinct consular districts in Siberia.

Officials have already been appointed and will leave for their posts during the coming month. Authorities at the Foreign Office state that the establishment of new consulates in Siberia has long been under consideration by the Government, but that the unsettled state of Siberia had hitherto prevented their opening. With the Kolchak Government gaining strength and stability every day it seemed advisable, in view of the ever increasing relations between China and Siberia, to open the contemplated consular offices without further delay.

AMERICAN SHIP STONED BY JAPANESE COOLIES

Kobe Police Then Jail Ecuador Quartermasters Held As Witnesses

After spending 48 hours in the Kobe jail where they were held as "witnesses," Messrs. George J. O'Brien and Nils Christensen, quartermasters on the Pacific Mail Steamship Company liner Ecuador, arrived in Shanghai Sunday morning on the Empress of Russia and rejoined their ship. Each of the men were allowed two cells during the entire time they were in jail.

The men were held by the Kobe police pending an investigation of trouble at the dock where the Ecuador lay last Wednesday night when members of the ship's company were obliged to cut the gang plank to prevent Japanese coolies, armed with sticks and stones, from coming aboard.

The trouble was precipitated by wharf coolies who were peeking into cabins late Wednesday night. One lady passenger threw a glass of water at a Japanese who pulled back the curtains of her cabin while he was looking in.

Stones were thrown at the steamer and 30 or 40 coolies subsequently attempted to go up the gangplank. Before police assistance arrived, it was necessary to let the gangplank fall to keep the Japanese from boarding. In the melee two Japanese were so badly injured that they were sent to the hospital.

The Ecuador was held in port eight hours while the matter was being investigated by police and American Consular authorities and was finally allowed to leave port when the captain consented to allow Messrs. O'Brien and Christensen to remain as witnesses.

The Kobe police agreed that the men were not to be arrested. As soon as the Ecuador left port they were thrown into jail and were released shortly before the Empress of Russia left for Shanghai.

PEKING STILL UNEASY OVER TIBETAN UPRISING

Effort To Effect Settlement With Tribesmen Being Made By Government

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, June 26.—The Tibetan uprising continues to cause the Peking Government anxiety, and the Cabinet has now telegraphed to Prince Ao, one of the most prominent Tibetan leaders, requesting his good offices in arranging a settlement with the tribesmen before formal negotiations with the British Legation are resumed. A Pacification Commissioner will likewise be appointed and sent o Tibet by the Government, which desires first-hand information on conditions there. Reports from Tibet and the Szechuen Marches have hitherto been both scanty and confusing, and the Foreign Office is in need of detailed information before it can conduct negotiations of any kind with the British Minister.

In the meantime the Tuchun of Kansu is likewise taking action in regard to the Tibetan trouble and reports to the Government that he has sent a delegate, guided by a Tibetan monk, to the scene of the uprising. The Kansu envoy is to investigate the causes of the trouble and arrange for a peaceful settlement if possible.

Trustworthy foreign reports on the trouble along the Tibetan border indicate that the continued and increasing dissatisfaction of the tribesmen with the Chinese system of levying taxes and duties is at the root of the present difficulty. The officials in that district have for months past been levying taxes that are not provided for by law and the revenues from which have not gone farther than the pocket of the collector. If this abuse of the taxation and revenue system could be abolished, there is every reason to believe that the Tibetan tribesmen would resume their normally peaceful occupations.

Campaign For Funds For American School To Start On July 4

Committee Will Approach Every American In China; G.$135,000 Raised In U. S.

The campaign for funds for Shanghai's new American School will start throughout China on July 4, it was decided at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Columbia Country Club. Taels 250,000 is to be raised in China and G. $250,000 is to be subscribed in the United States. Of the latter amount, G. $135,000 has already been pledged, according to advices received from Mr. H. E. Cole of the Standard Oil Company of New York, who heads the campaign for funds among business men in the United State. Missionary organisations are co-operating both in America and China.

The drive will be made under the direction of the American Chamber of Commerce and American Association of China. Circular letters will be directed to every American in China and members of the local committee are to call on every citizen of the United States living in Shanghai.

An attractive booklet has been prepared for circulation among Americans. It sets forth the need for a school for American children, points out that Americans have done much to further the cause of educations among the Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos, Koreans and Siamese while overlooking their own children and calls attention to educational institutions built and supported by British, French and Japanese communities for their own children.

Final details of the campaign organisation will be ready in another day or two. An energetic committee is in charge and the various subcommittees will soon be announced.

PEKING SENDS PROTEST TO OMSK GOVERNMENT

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, June 25.—The Central Government is in receipt of information to the effect that the Koltchak Government has established a Custom house at Chienyin, a town near Kiakhta, where import duties on a heavy scale are imposed upon Chinese goods. Certain Chinese articles, such as silk, tobacco and sugar, are furthermore not permitted to enter Siberian territory. Foreign office officials here say that the Chinese Government has already entered a protest with the Omsk Government concerning this case and that a favorable conclusion of the negotiations is expected.

The Bank Of China Situation

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, June 28.—The American Legation has received from the American Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai the following telegram:

"General financial situation Shanghai very much disturbed on account of shortage of silver for business purposes. If Chinese Government alter constitution of Bank of China or call the shareholders' meeting scheduled for June 29, we fear serious consequences with a likelihood of financial panic. We are informed if the Government carries out its proposed plan, local merchant shareholders will insist upon bank severing connections with Peking office."

In connection with this report it may be interesting to examine in some detail the recent proposals of the government with respect to the amendment of the charter of the Bank of China. The actuating motive of these recent proposals has been the desire of the Anfu party to obtain control of the Bank of China through the appointment of members of that party to the posts of Governor and Vice-Governor of the Bank. By the original charter of the Bank granted in 1913 the right to appoint the Governor and Vice-Governor was vested in the government, these two officials being additional to the board of directors elected by the shareholders. The charter was amended in 1915 but this provision remained unaltered. In 1917 the charter was again amended and on this occasion in exchange for an additional $7,000,000 subscribed by the shareholders of the bank, the government undertook to appoint the Governor and Vice-Governor of the Bank from among the directors elected by the shareholders. It will be seen that this concession on the part of the government was made in exchange for a valuable consideration, and it is a fact that the shareholders value the concession very highly.

The first proposals brought forward in Peking Parliament by the Anfu Club was that the present charter of the bank should be replaced by the original 1913 charter, which would leave the government free to appoint the Governor and Vice-Governor from its own nominees and not necessarily from among the directors elected by the shareholders. Owing to the strenuous opposition of the shareholders, and to the fact that the Minister of Finance refused to sanction the proposed legislation, this plan had to be abandoned. The Anfu Club then turned its attention to an effort to secure a majority control of the stock. As it had no intention of purchasing a control by acquiring stock on the market, which would have meant the expenditure of several millions in actual cash, the Club sought a means of acquiring control by increasing the amount of the stock outstanding.

Turning again to the recent history of the bank, we find that by legislation the authorised capital of the bank is $60,000,000, of which a first issue of $13,000,000 has been authorised and taken up. In connection therewith the charter provides that any second or further issues of stock which the government may desire to make shall be submitted to the shareholders in general meeting for confirmation before being made effective. To get around this very plain undertaking on the part of the government, the promoters of the present movement have brought forward legislation which provides that the first issue shall amount to $30,000,000, an increase in the capital stock of the bank of $17,000,000, which would give the holders of the new shares a 55 percent majority of the total stock of the bank. Were it necessary to acquire these shares by the payment of hard cash there could be little logical objection to an increase in the capital of the bank, although even showing a method of effecting it in contravention of the government's undertaking would be open to criticism. But in point of fact there is no intention of paying cash for these shares. What will happen is that the large holdings of the Bank of China Peking and other notes accumulated by various bureaus, other Government departments and individual members of the Anfu Club will be turned into the bank in exchange for the new shares, with the result that the available working capital of the bank will not be increased at all while the original shareholders will have their profits reduced by one-half. Under the circumstances it is not surprising that the original shareholders are opposing violently this attempt at watering the stock of the bank.

Such action on the part of the government, amounting as it does to a distinct breach of faith vis-a-vis the shareholders, can have but one result, greatly to weaken public confidence in the bank. This at a time like the present is fraught with many unpleasant possibilities. Money is extremely tight in Shanghai, furthermore the government has been covering its steadily recurring monthly deficit by miscellaneous small short-term loans contracted through the Bank of China, the Bank of Communications, local Peking Chinese banks, Tientsin Chinese banks, and in one case Shanghai native banks. In connection with these loans the Bank of China has played a leading part and has extended its support to the native banks. If the Bank of China for any cause is forced to withdraw its support, the native banks in turn will be forced to call in their loans and the result may easily be a financial catastrophe of the first magnitude. In such a case the position of the government, already desperate, will practically amount to bankruptcy, unless foreign assistance is forthcoming.

That such a catastrophe should be possible as a result of the short-sighted partisan ambitions of an irresponsible party of politicians is a sufficient commentary on the intelligence and efficiency of those now in control of the northern government.

CHILDREN'S CONSTIPATION
Baby's Own Tablets A Safe And Simple Remedy

The careful mother will always safeguard her infant or young children against constipation. Care in feeding and the administration of Baby's Own Tablets when necessary are the best means of prevention and cure.

Mrs. Albert Grout, of 312 Smith Street, Providence, Rhode Island, writes:—

"My baby was so constipated that I did not know what to do for her. Then I learned of Baby's Own Tablets and since she has taken them she has been entirely well. I am glad to recommend the Tablets to all mothers and would not think of being without them myself."

To mothers everywhere Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are a real friend. They are equally harmless and helpful to the youngest infant as to the child of 8 years or more, are a specific for indigestion, colic, diarrhoea, simple fever, make teething easy, promote restful sleep and good appetite, drive out worms. Obtainable from chemists, also at 60 cents the vial, post free from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Pond's Vanishing Cream

is based on o e of the most valuable skin-softening substances ever discovered, a substance whose affinity for the skin is so great that the moment it is applied it "Vanishes" and never reappears, as do many other toilet preparations.

It is fragrant and refreshing, it imparts to the skin a delightful sensation of coolness and velvety smoothness.

A light touch of POND'S VANISHING CREAM before applying powder gives the complexion an exquisite texture and a soft velvety bloom which cannot be obtained with powder alone. It is the ideal finishing touch.

As a safeguard against the ill effects of sun, wind and weather, POND'S VANISHING CREAM is simply wonderful. It preserves the necessary skin pliancy, and in the case of sunburn, does much to prevent unsightly peeling.

We want you to know, not from what we say, but from actual experience, how godd POND'S VANISHING CREAM is for your skin. You have read about it, heard about it; now we want you to use it.

Banking Service with AMERICA —direct and personal

EXPORTERS or importers now engaged in, or thinking of, trade with America would do well to consider not only the special nature of our facilities, but also the personal interest we take in every one of our customers' transactions.

First of all, we offer direct banking service—without intermediary dealings, or unnecessary delays.

Equally important is our personal service. Every transaction is followed through, both here and in America, by our own representatives with a personal interest, the value of which is evident in the service rendered.

May we talk with you about America?

Rubber Prices

Messrs. Meyer and Measor, Singapore, report that the auctions last week showed prices of 65½ cents to 69 cents for Pale Crepe and 63 cents to 66½ cents for Smoked Sheet, the tendency of the market being unsettled.

Messrs. R. N. Truman and Co. have received the following telegraphic report from their Singapore agents in connection with the last weekly report auctions held on June 25, 1919:

Average price realised:

No. 1 Smoked Sheet—$0.65 per pound equivalent to 1s. 6½d. ex warehouse Singapore.

No. 1 Crepe—$0.67 per pound equivalent to 1s. 7½d. ex warehouse Singapore.

Demand is good chiefly owing to competition between Chinese and Japanese. Offered 675 tons; sold 563 tons.

Kelantan Meeting Adjourned

As a mark of respect to the memory of Mr. C. W. Wrightson, who was chairman of the board of directors, the annual meeting of the Shanghai Kelantan Rubber Estates, Ltd., which was to have been held yesterday afternoon, was adjourned until a later date.

Present for the meeting were Mr. N. G. Maitland, who took the chair, and Pere F. Sallou, directors, and the following shareholders: Messrs. V. Meyer, J. J. Bahnson, W. H. Jackson, E. N. Gilson, Hugo Reiss, P. S. F. McBain, Charles J. Stewart, B. Fein, A. Gerry, E. A. Prince and K. Hara.

When time for calling the meeting had arrived Mr. Maitland said:

"Gentlemen: It is with deep regret that I have to inform you that Mr. Wrightson, who should have taken the chair at this meeting this afternoon, died this morning. Mr. Wrightson was one of the most highly respected members of this community and by his sterling qualities he had endeared himself not only to his contemporaries, but to men like myself who have known him for the last 20 years, and also to those of the younger generation in Shanghai, who have received the privilege of his acquaintance. I propose as a token of respect to his memory that this annual meeting be adjourned to a date to be announced in the usual way by the secretaries of the company and that a note of sympathy in her great loss be addressed to Mrs. Wrightson and relatives of the family."

Mr. V. Meyer rose to second the proposal, expressing his own deep personal regret over the loss of an old friend.

Music In America

(From The Birmingham Age-Herald)

Persons now living recall the time when there was comparatively little appreciation in this country of music of artistic merit; when the symphony orchestra was unknown and when the few virtuosos that appeared at infrequent intervals came from Europe.

It is very different now. Native-born artists are plentiful and nearly every city of any pretention to culture supports a local orchestra capable of performing master works. Grand opera and concerts attract large audiences and American composers are coming steadily to the front.

So rapid has been the progress of music in the United States that distinguished musicians of foreign birth and education are beginning to speak in high terms of our local talent, and Rachmaninoff does not hesitate to say that America will, before a great while, lead the world in musical art. "I see no need for you Americans to go abroad, either to learn to compose or be trained," said the famous Russian pianist-composer in an interview in New York. "Your country should inspire you just as well as

A Breakfast In Vienna

Sidelights On The Results Of A War Policy

By Oliver Madox Hueffer

(From London Daily Chronicle)

Vienna.—I have just finished breakfast, and the unpleasant memory of it reminds me that there must be a very great many people in England just now who have a very small idea of what Central European breakfast in April, 1919, looks and tastes like. Here is the inventory of it:

Item.—One nicked silver salver, bearing one cup and saucer without a spoon—a spoon is a perfectly unnecessary article.

Item.—One tiny glass bottle, containing what looks like dirty water, and tastes like dirty water, but is called dilute—very dilute—saccharine.

Item.—One teapot, containing a pale-brown liquid that frankly professes to be substitute tea (I believe it to be made of beech leaves, as are the cigarettes I am going to smoke after breakfast; it is equally nasty and of somewhat similar flavor).

Indiarubber Bread

There is no milk, no sugar, no any bread that the down-and-outest tramp in England would condescend to look at twice.

I have seen eggs four or five times, but never costing less than three crowns, or marks, apiece. I have seen a farmer's wife actually burst into tears with gratitude when I gave her a piece of soap.

I have tried to buy a white shirt in Vienna, and have been asked 160 crown for one of the poorest quality. I have seen in fashionable boot shops footwear offered for sale at 50 and 80 crowns, with wooden soles and uppers made of some kind of paper.

And before I left England I was quite inclined to agree with the people who said that the Central European pleas of scarcity were no more than bluff, making heaven knows what devilish designs of a military come-back. And I hear there are people in England who cannot understand why Central Europe shows a tendency to go Bolshevik.

I only wish I could ask those people to breakfast with me in Vienna.

Up The Avenue

Yes, I was proud today, I'll say,
When we marched up the street;
That music and those flags were gay,
Those welcome cheers a treat.
But something else, it's mighty true,
Put pep into my stride;
I marched the prouder for I knew
Jim marched there at my side.

Jim was my bunkie, and our game
Was mopping up the nests.
Machine guns kept the ground aflame—
Some hundreds of the pests.
We ducked behind a shell-hole rim
That stopped a hail of lead.
A boche screeched "Kamerad!" and Jim
Looked up. They shot him dead.

We'd slept together, tired men . . .
And what we had we'd shared;
I liked him all the better when
I knew that he was scared—
Even when the fight was in his blood!
He was a man—and, well,
I sent the Hun that got my Bud
Skyhooting down to hell.

A hundred thousand in the stands?
Some crowd! Eyes front for me.
I heard the clapping of their hands—
But one face I could see:
Jim's mother there. And she saw Jim—
How proud he strode along—
And other lads marched there with him,
An unseen, silent throng.

Rubber Difficulties

"The lack of suitable harbors in Sumatra and other Far Eastern countries, where a large part of the crude rubber used in this country is produced, works a great inconvenience in the transportation of this raw material overseas," notes a writer in The San Francisco Argonaut. And he goes on to say:

"At present plantation owners are compelled to load their crude rubber on lighters, which transport it out to the ocean liners that, on account of the lack of docking facilities, must anchor off shore. This necessitates extra handling of the shipments, besides the great importance of a deep harbor on the east coast of the island to accommodate the ocean steamers that must transport the rapidly increasing production of crude rubber across the Pacific. The government of the Netherlands East Indies is about to construct a $4,000,000 harbor at Belawan, the seaport for Medan, which is fifteen miles inland, in the centre of the large rubber-producing section. It is planned to dredge a harbor deep enough to afford docking facilities for the largest vessels. About three years will be required to complete the gigantic project."

Who Owns The Railroads?

American railroad shareholders have been tabulated to an extent by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The tabulation leaves many questions unanswered for people of an inquiring turn of mind, but discloses some interesting information.

Taking the larger companies, which number 109, the Commission found that they had a total of 627,000 shareholders, and that 1.3 percent of this number hold a little more than half the shares. These are the twenty largest holders of stock in each company, whether the holder is an individual or a corporation. Of the remaining 619,000 shareholders, each has an average of 75 shares.

In the individual large companies the twenty largest holders count least in that Pennsylvania, where they have about 9 percent of the stock, the remainder being in the possession of 100,000 shareholders. In this respect, the Santa Fe stands second, with the twenty largest holders controlling 14 percent, whereas 44,000 divide the balance of the stock.

In railroad bonds, life insurance companies hold a par value of G.$1,681,000,000 and savings banks have enough more to bring the total for these two classes of investors to G.$2,000,000,000 out of an aggregate of G.$11,000,000.—From The Nation's Business.

The Republicans And The Presidency

(American World's Work)

There are many indications that the Republicans take the Congressional election of 1918 as a conclusive sign that the Presidency is to pass into their hands next year. There is no ground, however, for such an assumption. The American electorate is notoriously changeable, not to say fickle, and is capable of entirely reversing its judgments every twelve months. It does this repeatedly, our history in particular showing that an administration slump in the middle of the term is not infrequently followed by a complete resuscitation in the Presidential year. The status of the Wilson Administration resembles somewhat that of Lincoln's first term. In 1862, the Republicans met with reverses even more calamitous than those which were visited upon the Democrats in 1918. In all parts of the North the Democrats increased their strength, even such stalwart Republican states as Pennsylvania, Indiana, and Illinois going over bodily to the Democratic party. Yet two years later the Republicans regained all these losses and elected Lincoln for the second time by an overwhelming majority.

This tendency to change our minds has repeatedly manifested itself since and there is probably some rational explanation for the fact that a party which falls in the middle of a Presidential term may regain popular favor at the next election. A defeat has a sobering effect upon the defeated party; it puts it upon its good behavior and causes it to seek ways of regaining the popular favor. On the other hand it arouses a spirit of over-confidence in the successful organisation that not uncommonly leads to recklessness. The election of last fall is clearly having this effect upon the Republicans. The opinion prevails among them that 1920 is a "Republican year," and that almost any policy; and almost any candidate will be successful. This state of over-confidence is the only thing that can explain the failure of the Republican majority to rise to its opportunities in Congress, to lay hold of the situation with a firm hand, to root out the abuses trat have accumulated under Democratic domination and to strike out on new lines. Nothing has quite so pained the public as the failure to abolish so antique a regulation as the seniority rule in the appointment of Congressional committees. This is the rule which gave the Nation its Kitchins and its Dents, and it is a rule which, so long as it prevails, will prevent Congress from ever becoming an efficient legislative machine. The emergence into positions of influence of such old familiar faces as Cannon, Mann, Penrose, Smoot, and the rest is hardly an assurance that the Republican control will represent a much higher standard of character and ability than the Democratic. The conduct of Senator Lodge hardly augurs well for the Republican majority; certainly there has seldom come from an influential source in this country a document more utterly mischievous than that in which Senator Lodge took the side of the Italians in the Fiume dispute, and even sought to arouse the Italians in this country against the Administration. Should any other influential Republican do such a thing, there would be a general outcry that he was angling for the "Italian vote" in view of possible Presidential contingencies, and was thus attempting to start a new form of hyphenism.

The fact is that the Republicans will have to lift themselves considerably above their present level if they are to succeed next year. Their behavior in the new Congress will decide the next Presidency.

Wings Of Spring

(From Poetry)

Margot

Dear one, I cannot tell you in a word
How sweet I think you are, for you are gone—
Gone like a lovely song that I have heard,
But never learned, from new-leaved woods at dawn.
I think of fluting from a distant hill
Blown in the spring by some light shepherd boy,
Startling the winds and making birds be still;
And in my soul awakes a sudden joy—
A joy that rising to my lips must die
With such pain as the night feels when afar
Day's silver fingers slip along the sky
And tremble up to take a fainting star.
You are the memory that a dream awakes
Like dwindling music that an echo makes.

GEORGE O'NEIL

Moral For Writers: Get A Wife

The suggestion that produces a new book is not always revealed as frankly by the author as in the case of William J. Locke's "The Rough Road." Mr. Locke says:

"One evening a couple of months after I had finished 'The Red Planet,' I was tearing my hair and saying that this time I really had come to the end of things and would never again have the ghost of an idea for another book, when my wife, who was sitting on the divan in the drawing-room playing unconcernedly with our little Pekinese—she had heard this cry of wolf so many times before—addressed the little beast (I love him dearly, by the way) in the maudlin tone of which we both are guilty:

"'Why doesn't he write a nice book about you, darling?' Whereupon I clapped my hand to my forehead and cried, 'I will. I'll write a story about a man brought up like that dog and pitched into the war!' And I went straight into my study and set to work on the scheme."

as all the departments of the American government derive their right to exercise and function by virtue of the Constitution and there is no other source for such right.

Now, when the organic law of the United States is so plain in the protection it gives to the publisher of a newspaper of American nationality, the intimation is inadmissable that he has forfeited his constitutional privilege because he locates at Shanghai in the exercise of his vocation.

The thoughts here submitted are suggested by the proposal of the Municipal Council and some other gentlemen who seem willing to take under their exclusive management the foreign newspapers published at Shanghai. The reflections set forth and the reasons therefor can be given as a respectful notice by THE CHINA PRESS that it is published as an American newspaper, and that so long as the principle of extra-territoriality is in force, it will be obedient to American law only, as represented in China by American officials, THE CHINA PRESS can be attentive to the municipal regulations of Shanghai only insofar as they do not impair rights under American law and should the issue be made the regulations can be held subordinate.

But if the principle of extra-territoriality be abolished the Municipal Council will be a subject of history and THE CHINA PRESS will appear as usual under the treaty between China and America. If the ratepayers of Shanghai vote against a free press and thus follow the example of Japan THE CHINA PRESS will promptly avail itself of the proffered opportunity to declare itself an American citizen.

of Orleans, appeared as a cousin of the king; while his wife, Yasbeau, became his sister, in order to save the monarch from bigamy. Until 1842 mesalliances were forbidden on the Vienna stage. When the Burg-theater proposed staging one of Freytag's plays, in which Count Waldemar marries the gardener's daughter, the censor explained: 'These things, unfortunately, may happen in real life, but they must not be put on the stage.'"

There are some "gemischte Gemuse" with the salt pork. They are mostly rather sweetish sauerkrut, and, something that, I think, must be a limp kind of marrow. There are no potatoes.

My dessert is what is known as a "Mehlspeise," which is a bit of jammy cake made, I think, from rather overglutinous plaster of Paris.

Coffee In Disguise

That is my lunch, and the cost of it, including half a bottle of rather good red wine and a cup of "Ersatzkoffee"—made of inferior acorns, mixed with the dried liver of a horse that must have worked hard in its time—is 38 kronen.

To a wealthy foreigner like myself this only means a little over 9s., but to the real Viennese a krone is still worth 10d., and his lunch would have cost him well over 30s.

Estimates vary as to the number of people out of work in Vienna; with their families I suppose there must be well over a quarter of a million of them. They cannot afford 30s. apiece for their lunch. I suppose there must be another million who are making on an average ten kronen a day. They cannot afford 30s. for their lunch either.

Remember, too, that I am going to dine again in the evening—a precisely similar meal to my lunch—and that this will cost me another 40 crowns or so.

Eggs At Three Crowns Each

The meals that I have described to you vary very little from what you will get in Berlin, and Breslau, and Budapest, and five hundred other Central European cities. I have been in Central Europe something like two months now, and I can say in all honesty that I have not seen

What Do You Think About When Idle?

At what age do you s op growing—not increasing in stature or in girth, but broadening your mind and your outlook upon life In his address to the graduates of the Medical Department, New York University, on March 1, Prof. Henry N. Donaldson urged them to keep on growing throughout their lives and mentioned two famous men who did so.

"When Ca-o learned Greek at eighty years it indicated more than that the farm was doing well and he had time to spare," said Prof. Donaldson. "It indicated a capacity for new interests and a mental retentiveness which are among the virtues of the youthful mind.

"Helmholtz began as a physician—a very mediocre practitioner, they say—but under the inspiration of Johannes Muller he became interested in physiology. This branch he followed by the study of the eye and ear, leading to his great works on physiological optics and sensations of tone—by the way devising that important instrument the ophthalmoscope. But the physiology of the sense organs called for physics. So well did he follow this lead that he became one of the first physicists, and linked his name with the doctrine of the conservation of energy. Still going forward he developed his mathematics and became eminent in that field also. Here is a steady growth through a long life. A great intellectual engine at his command was applied to field after field in succession, and always with a resulting advance in knowledge.

"Such men set the pace and these pacemakers are the most helpful members of our race, for while those who have stopped growing have but a single response, 'It can't be done,' the pacemakers do it.

"Naturally you ask, what is the formula, how is it accomplished? Let me reply by a question: What do you think about when you are not working? For most of us that period represents the larger part of life, and it does make a difference what we do with this great fraction. so I will leave the implications of my question without elaboration, but ask you to meditate upon it."

Alphonso's Curios

People with the collecting mania will be interested in an odd collection of relics possessed by the king of Spain. They are relics associated with attempts on his life.

Among them is a walking-stick with which a discontented servant tried to brain him. They include also some pieces of the bomb thrown at him in Barcelona, the skeleton of one of the horses killed by the bomb attempt in the Rue de Rivoli, Paris, and some fragments collected in the street after the explosion of the infernal machine hurled at the royal carriage on his wedding day.

A relic of the very first attempt on his life is the teat of a feeding-bottle, with which an attempt was made to poison him when he was eight months old.

A Chinese Lyric

(From The Church Students' Monthly)

Li-Po was more warlike in spirit than any other of the early Chinese poets. His lines reflect patriotic devotion rather than the wretched aspects of war. This little lyric with a delicate stroke of the brush gives us the dream of home and fatherland:

"Athwart the bed
I watch the moonbeams cast a trail
So bright, so cold, so frail,
That for a space it gleams
Like hoar-frost on the margin of my dreams.
I raise my head,—
The splendid moon I see:
Then drop my head,
And sing to dreams of thee—
My fatherland, of thee!"

Changes

(From Poetry)

He thought it was a goddess in merry-making mood,
But it was just a lady who wanted to be wooed.

He knelt before that lady, as suddenly to find Within his arms a woman who did not know her mind.

He whispered to that woman, discovering instead
An insolent young savage who tried to kill, and fled.

He made after that savage, high mounted, pulse elate—
Ah, will he know the beggar maid outside his postern gate?

The Hurry Habit---Does More Haste Mean Less Speed?

By Edwin Pugh

(From London Daily Express)

He came leaping up the stairs—two or three stairs at a bound—and brushed me aside as if I had been a cobweb or any thing else equally unsubstantial. With the brim of my hat on the bridge of my nose I staggered, cannoned into a matronly lady, sent her flying against the hand-rail, and—worst of all!—disarranged her hat. She said wrathfully: "Clumsy fool!" and I had hardly recovered from the shock of her displeasure when another flying figure overtook me. I felt his hot breath on the back of my neck. I swerved out of his way, seized him by the arm.

"What's the hurry?" I inquired.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" he gasped. "Hurry? I dunno. No hurry in particular."

"Of course there isn't. You're not catching a train, you're just leaving one. You're not going to business, but returning home. Why, then, this unseemly haste? Why are you and all these other sapheads hustling madly along as if a mob of Bolshevists were after you?

"Let me tell you something, my young friend. In days of old, when there were no express trains, motor-omnibuses, electric trams, taxis, tubes, or any other means of getting about at the pace we do now, men had time to attend to their business and go their ways without all this risk of heart-failure. Think of the work they turned out: how it lasts! And then think of the work we turn out now, often scrapped without ever being used at all."

"Going off the deep end a bit, ain't you, old bean?" interjected my young friend. "How about the progress we've made——?"

"I'll grant you all the progress you've made. What I'm talking about is the progress you haven't made. Why is everything behindhand, why is everything postponed, why is everybody late? Well, I'll tell you. It's because we've somehow got it into our heads that the more we rush about the busier we are. That's how 'nerves' came into existence. No 'nerves' in the old days. That's why we're simply not fit to master our jobs properly when we do tackle them, and can't stick it long even then. That's why so much time is wasted in lunching, afternoon tea-drinking, and cigarette-smoking, and—and jaw. It's this hurry habit that does all the mischief, and we can't shake it off even in our leisure hours.

"It's only the men who do not suffer from this hurry habit—the men who seem always to have a little time to spare—that really do work hard and well and get most done in the least time.

"'Get a move on' is the order of the day. And for every minute we gain by getting a move on we lose an hour on discovering that in our haste we have moved on in a wrong direction."

Our Vigilant Tea-Tasters

Tea is a thing regarding which our government takes great pains, upon behalf of its citizens. Ever since 1897 its has had a statute to prevent importations of tea that is impure and unwholesome, and the Treasury Department has had its official tasters who, much after the fashion of tasters who accompanied kings when poisoning was the Bolshevists favorite method of operation, sample the draught before their sovereign, the American people, gets a chance to drink.

At the end of February the Treasury announced the standards to which imports of tea must come in 1919. That the tea-tasters' art is delicate is clearly surmisable from the regulations. The quality must be up to standard, they say, but the flavor may be that of a different district; for example, a Teenkai may be equal to a Moyune, but a distinctly smoky or Wenchow of sour character is not to be considered equal to the first two mentioned.—From The Nation's Business.

GEN. SCOTT LEAVES ARMY AFTER 48 YEARS' SERVICE

Camp Dix Commander And Veteran Of Many Wars Retires

Camp Dix, N. J. May 10.—Without ceremony, Major General Hugh L. Scott, commandant at this cantonment since January, 1918, today turned over his post to Major General Harry Hale and prepared to retire from the army after a continuous service of forty-eight years.

Tonight at Burlington General Scott was guest of honor at a dinner given by welfare workers, officers and newspaper correspondents, and his work in organising the camp was commended by all the speakers.

General Scott's career has been one of continuous fighting since his graduation from West Point in 1871. His first assignment was a lieutenancy in a Western cavalry regiment and he participated in eleven Indian wars. His dealing with the redmen in these conflicts won for him a reputation for fair dealing, and not one of the treaties he made with them has been broken to this day.

He was known to them as Mole Tequot, the "sign talker," and is said to be more familiar with their customs than any other white man living. It is this knowledge that has caused the President to name him a commissioner of Indian affairs, which duties he will take up within a few weeks.

During the Spanish-American War the Cuban occupation and the Philippine insurrection he was in the thick of the fighting. It was while engaged with the Moros that his hands were so badly mangled by an exploding shell that for a time it was believed he would be compelled to retire, but he preferred to remain in the service.

When Germany was endeavoring to bring about hostilities between the United States and Mexico General Scott was called upon three times for diplomatic missions to that republic.

As chief of staff when the United States declared war on Germany he contributed largely to the success of the selective service act and helped to draw the plans for intensive training. As a military observer on five different European fronts he had acquired a knowledge of modern warfare that made his work in this regard extremely valuable to the government. He also was a member of the Root commission to Russia.

An estate near Princeton has been purchased by the general and he will make his home there.

WOOD KEPT MILLIONS WARM

Nearly Half Billion Dollars Spent For Forest Fuel Last War Winter

New York, May 20.—When coal was plentiful and comparatively cheap few realised the importance of wood as fuel or the extent to which it could be utilised in an emergency. Had the war gone on another year, fuel wood would have been one of the nation's mainstays in winning the victory, for when the armistice was signed last November hundreds of fuel producing enterprises were abandoned in the belief that coal would be too plentiful to make woodcutting profitable except in localities where firewood is used regardless of war emergencies. Figures compiled by the Federal Bureau of Crop Estimates show that 102,903,000 cords of firewood were produced on the farms of the United States last year, with a value of $487,106,000, or $4.73 a cord at the farm of a nearby town. Of the total production, about 77,092,000 cords, or 75 percent of the total, were consumed on farms; this is an average of about 11.5 cords a farm. A year ago a similar estimate was made, in which the farm consumption average was 12.6; but later investigation indicated that some reporters figured on a short cord instead of a full cord of 128 cubic feet, and in consequence, the estimate of 12.6 cords for 1917 was probably somewhat excessive, on the basis of 128 cubic feet a cord.

On the basis of estimates made for 1918, the farm fuel wood crop is one of the important crops of the farm, inasmuch as only five crops exceeded it in value in 1918, namely, corn, wheat, oats, hay and cotton.

In the production of firewood New York is one of the leading States, the output for the year being 3,225,000 cords, valued at $25,478,000. Michigan and New York, producing 4,415,000 cords, worth $30,905,000, as did Texas with 6,231,000 cords, worth $25,547,000. Maine, with its great forests, removed it is so far from the coalfields, produced only 1,200,000 cords of firewood, worth $11,280,000. Virginia's output was 4,420,000 cords, valued at 1,246,000. North Carolina is another wood-burning State, cutting 6,600,000 cords, worth $25,080,000. Georgia's figures for both production and price are exactly the same as North Carolina's.

High Cost Of Living Has Hit Japan Also

Takes Twice As Much To Pay Expenses Now As In 1914

Tokio, June 22.—Just how far the high cost of living has affected prices of the principal commodities in Japan is shown in some interesting figures compiled by some of the foreign secretaries of the Y. M. C. A. in Tokio and Yokohama after a careful investigation of pre-war and present prices, the pre-war prices being found by averaging the prices for several years prior to 1914, says the Japan Advertiser.

An average increase of 109 percent is shown in the difference in prices of necessities for these two periods. Coal shows the greatest increase, with 200 percent to its credit. On the other hand, sugar shows the lowest increase, 7 percent, and servants' wages are next to the lowest in the percentage of increase, having advanced only 60 percent.

Of other items on the list, pork has gone up 180 percent, rice 178 percent, beef 160 percent, and potatoes 150 percent.

An increase of 100 percent during this period was made in the prices of fowl, eggs, flour, fruit, vegetables, canned goods of Japanese make, and clothing and shoes.

Fish has gone up only 80 percent in price; riksha fares 75 percent; milk 1 percent and butter 71 percent.

The accounts of one Tokio family for instance, for the first four months of 1916 and the corresponding period for 1919 bear out the average percentage of increase arrived at from the above investigation, without any increase in the size of the family or any appreciable difference in the manner of living, the percentage of increase being 101.

Groceries in 1916 cost this family Yen 86.60; in 1919, groceries amounted to Yen 273.56. Fuel for the first period cost Yen 96. For the same period in 1919, it cost Yen 214.22.

Meat also doubled in price, jumping from Yen 26.94 to Yen 56.64. Milk was Yen 69.60 during the first period, and only increased to Yen 84.20, while vegetables increased nearly three times in price. In 1915 vegetables cost this family Yen 12.56, and in 1919, Yen 34.32. Fruit in 1915 was Yen 20.46, and in 1912 Yen 55.92. Service during the first period cost this family Yen 140.00, and in 1919 had increased only to Yen 190.84.

Siberia Red Cross Notes

Vladivostok, June 20.—Major Fred P. Manget, Medical Director of the American Red Cross in Siberia, has left Vladivostok for a trip of inspection, which will take him to the western front along the Urals. Major Manget will visit not only American Red Cross hospitals from Irkutsk to Cheliabinsk, but will also inspect the Russian military and civilian hospitals, with a view to determining the measure of relief needed by them within the scope of Red Cross contributions.

This is Major Manget's first trip west. He has been forwarding large supplies to the western hospitals for many months and will see for the first time the results of the Red Cross system of medical supplies, organised largely by himself.

Miss Grace Harrington, Superintendent of Nurses in the Red Cross in Siberia, and Miss Jeannette Searight, Major Manget's secretary, went westward on the same express train to accompany him on his inspection tour.

Indicative of the amount of relief goods coming into Siberia for the American Red Cross is the fact that there were in the harbor a few days ago five steamers simultaneously discharging cargoes for the Red Cross. The United States Shipping Board's large steamer East Helix brought in a cargo for the Red Cross of 1,865 cases.

Heavy shipments of cotton gauze, drugs and medical instruments are arriving in Vladivostok for the American Red Cross both from Oriental ports and from the United States. Some of these shipments are for immediate use in the hospitals and others are in preparation for the extensive campaign against typhus and other epidemic diseases and in the relief of the wounded which the Red Cross is preparing to carry on this fall and winter. To show the wide range of purchases necessary for the relief work in Siberia, the following items from orders placed during one week only may be quoted: 3,000 hair clippers, 15 tons of Creoline, 40 tons washing soap, seven carloads flour and beans, 100 tons sugar, typhoid and dyptheria vaccine for 5,000 men each, three tons of tea, 20,000 pounds of absorbent cotton, eleven auto trucks, 20 barrels of glycerine and 25 barrels of alcohol for a non-freezing mixture to be used by Red Cross ambulances, automobiles and auto trucks during next winter.

A special order of 300,000 suits of underwear placed in Japan a few weeks ago is already getting results in American Red Cross work in Siberia. The last shipment was completed by the middle of June and more than 100,000 of the suits have been sent west from Vladivostok for relief work in hospitals along the front and in the cities back of the front which the American Red Cross is operating.

American Red Cross Relief Train No. 13, in charge of Lt. Vincent, reached Omsk about June 6 or 7 but, due to the interruptions in the telegraph service between Omsk and Vladivostok, it was ten days later before the arrival was reported to Red Cross headquarters in the latter city. Train No. 14, in charge of Lt. Holland, was not far behind No. 13 at last reports and probably has been in Omsk for at least a week. Lt. Huselton, in charge of Relief Train No. 15, left Chita for Irkutsk and western points on June 11. Train No. 12, which is in charge of Lt. Gaston and has been unloaded at Omsk, left that city for Vladivostok on June 4. Train No. 16 is due to leave Vladivostak tomorrow night, June 21, carrying large shipments of relief supplies and a considerable personnel of Red Cross workers for western points.

Major Charles MacDonald, Comptroller of the Siberian Commission, A.R.C., and also Division Manager for western Siberia, has arrived at Omsk and sent back his first brief report on the situation there, emphasising the need for large operations to meet the necessities of the hospitals and the civilian populations.

Red Cross Dental Car No. 2, under the charge of Dr. Frank Nemecek, has returned from its first trip to the north of Vladivostok and along the Chinese Eastern Railway out into Manchuria. After restocking with dental supplies at Vladivostok, the Car will be assigned to operate east and west of Irkutsk, at which point a dental clinic will be established in connection with the new Red Cross hospital.

Hospital and general medical supplies make up an increasingly large proportion of the American Red Cross relief trains sent from Vladivostok to western Siberia. There is on hand in the Vladivostok warehouses of the Red Cross an enormous quantity of heavy clothing of all sorts, blankets, bath robing, and other wearing materials. This is part of the supply which will be distributed in eastern and western Siberia before the cold weather sets in next fall. Distribution will be made by Red Cross workers after a careful investigation of every district and a determination of the needs of the civilian population. Now that summer has come to Siberia, further immediate distribution of heavy clothing is unnecessary, and, on the other hand, there is as great a demand as ever for drugs, surgical instruments and general hospital supplies, particularly in western Siberia. Therefore the Red Cross, in outfitting its trains, is shipping every available instrument and ounce of medicine to the west. During the next few months the Red Cross expects to send out at least three relief trains per month, each of from 30-35 cars.

At this writing it is not certain whether the steamers Archer and Peffron, which are to take home wounded and invalid Czechs under the care of the American Red Cross will go by way of the Panama Canal or the Suez route. Cargoes can be secured for both of them either for American ports or for Mediterranean ports. The steamer Nanking, which left here on June 15 with 1,050 Czechs, sailed for San Francisco and it was then believed that the other two vessels would go by the Indian Ocean, the Suez Canal and the Mediterranean Sea up to Trieste. Large cargo offerings have recently been made for American ports and it may be that the Archer, which is due to sail June 21 or 22, and the Peffron, which will go some two weeks later, will be sent from Vladivostok via Japan to a Pacific Coast port and then through the Panama Canal and across the Atlantic. The Archer will carry about two thousand and the Peffron about one thousand Czechs from the Czecho-Slovak army in Siberia, who will be taken to Trieste and there, still under Red Cross care, be put on board special trains and accompanied to Prague, the new capital of Czecho-Slovakia.

NEW MINING CORPORATION IS ANGLO-CHINESE BODY

Purposes Outlined At First Meeting Of Shareholders At Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 27.—The first meeting of shareholders of the newly formed Chinese Mining Corporation, an Anglo-Chinese concern, was held on June 25 at the offices of Mr. Hsiung Hsi-ling. Those present included Mr. Hsiung Hsi-ling, who also represented ex-President Li Yuan-hung; Mr. Chen Chu-yin, representing Tuchun Chen Kwang-yuan of Kiangsi; Mr. Tu Kuan, representing Mr. Liu Peh-shen, who in turn represents Mr. Chang Chien; Mr. Liu Ti-yu, Mr. Wei Chen-sen, representing Tuchun Wong Chang-yuan of Hupeh, Mr. Pan Fu, Mr. T. S. Wei, also representing Mr. C. F. Liu, Mr. T. A. Barson and Mr. G. W. Frodsham.

At the opening of the meeting Mr. Hsiung Hsi-ling was elected not only chairman of the meeting but chairman of the corporation. Mr. Hsiung then recounted the history of the corporation and said that its powers had a wide scope. It would conduct mining business on its own account, assist other companies to secure financial help by introducing and negotiating with foreign financiers, and send geologists to any part of China to study mining conditions and explore areas. It was, however, understood by both the Chinese and British parties that advances required by the geologists were to be made by the British party, to be refunded after the corporation had made money. Mr. Hsiung spoke of the interest displayed by the Chinese in the corporation, pointing out that the Chinese portion of the share capital had been over-subscribed by as much as 50 percent, the surplus having to be refunded.

Directors Are Elected

The meeting then proceeded to appoint directors of the corporation and the following were elected: Mr. Hsiung Hsi-ling, who had already been elected chairman, Mr. Pan Fu, Mr. Liu Peh-shen, Mr. J. P. Kenrick, Mr. T. A. Barson and Mr. G. W. Frodsham.

The Chinese shareholders then elected Tuchun Chen Kwang-yuan as auditor on the Chinese side, and Mr. Frodsham was elected managing director.

Mr. Barson then spoke, saying that after the agreement was signed last year he left for England, where he took the opportunity to discuss the subject with mining capitalists, interesting them in it. The Peking Syndicate were not new to China; neither were they without experience of joint working with the Chinese; and they had the means of meeting any extensive operation that the corporation might be called upon to deal with. He ventured to say that in these days of rapid progress foreign capital was very necessary in China for the welfare of the country, but he was just as certain that the employment of foreign capital in China was unsatisfactory and unfair unless the Chinese also benefited by it. Profitable production reduced taxation and benefited the nation generally. This was one of the objects of the company—profitable production. The country offered the natural wealth, and the corporation possessed the wealth and the technical knowledge to turn it into cash. He hoped that the corporation would now make a start straight away and by making money for the company would incidentially give great benefit to the Chinese nation.

Holds Hopeful View

Mr. Hsiung Hsi-ling at the conclusion of the meeting stated that what Mr. Barson said was appreciated by all the Chinese shareholders, adding that all joint enterprises between British and Chinese had turned out satisfactorily and he hoped that the results obtained by the new corporation would equal, if not better, those of the Kailan Mining Administration and the Fu Chung Corporation.

China Political Notes From Chinese Press

Mr. Chu Chi-chieh still refuses to proceed to Shanghai to resume the peace conference and has recommended Mr. Chien Nung-hsun, the former Premier, as his successor.

The Cantonese faction strongly holds that Kwangtung should be ruled by a Cantonese, nominating Dr. Wu Ting-fang to be governor. Tuchun Mo Yung-hsin seems inclined to agree, but Li Keng-yuan is still opposing.

The Government has received a report from General Tsao K'un of his discovery and seizure of printed matter of Bolshevist propaganda containing seditious articles. A circular order has been telegraphed to the provinces to instruct the troops, students and police to be on the alert.

The Joint Bureau of the General Staff and the Ministry of War is planning the unification of the arsenals in this country and proposes to appoint General Tsiang Ting-chi the director-general.

The salt merchants of Shantung have jointly petitioned the Salt Revenue Department for a postponement of the imposing of the salt dealers. They say this has the effect of doubling the quantity of Japanese imported salt to the detriment of Chinese revenue.

The Diplomatic Corps has endorsed the proposal of the Government to enforce the use of revenue stamps on all commercial papers in the international settlements.

China has claimed over 30,000,000 roubles damages from the Russian Government.

The members of the Diplomatic Corps have received instructions from their respective Governments consenting to return the Boxer indemnity.
